

“Techniques for writing an APICS exam successfully”

In this session, Liezl Smith will take you through some tips and secrets for passing an APICS exam. Whilst specific content per module will not be covered, time will be allowed for discussions on difficult topics and questions candidates may have. It is assumed that candidates have already studied the material. The focus of this session is the actual APICS exam.

Liezl has completed the CPIM, CIRM and the CSCP between 1999 and 2006, 11 APICS exams in total, passing every single one the first time. There are certain tips and methods of answering the exam questions that they would like to share with you.

Session outline:

- Understanding a scaled score
- The way that APICS thinks+
- When I open my exam paper
- How to answer the questions
- Reviewing my answers
- Some things to remember

Who should attend?

- Individuals who are writing their first APICS exam
- Individuals who want to improve their marks obtained for the APICS exams
- Individuals who have failed APICS exams in the past
- Individuals who would like to know more about the exam process before registering

Testimonials

It is a great reflection on Liezl's guidance and her tuition in the exam support session - I don't think I would have got anywhere near it without it+. Alan Bell, passing the CSCP exam first time.

Put it down to the help that I received from your session regarding exam questions and how to answer them.

For the first time since trying to pass APICS exams I looked at the questions in a different way and answered differently to the way I am used to.” - Mark Meiring, passing the CSCP exam first time.
